Keywords: publishing, journals, books, Informing Science Institute

The Informing Science Institute published eight journals as well as books. All Informing Science Institute journals and books are available to everyone online without charge as well as in print. All ISI journals use a review process that provides authors with mentoring, a positive and constructive experience, regardless of whether or not their papers are accepted for publication.

The Editors-in-Chief (EiCs) discuss the review process and how they, their Associate Editors, and
